

ORIS Cod.1393

A compact check gives ORIS its identity, formed through the crossing of fine linen stripes that create a clear yet gentle geometry. The scale remains contained, allowing the pattern to read as texture from a distance and to reveal its check more distinctly at closer view.

The weave holds a classic linen character, with a hand that is natural, light, and softly structured. Subtle irregularities in the linen yarn bring variation to the grid, giving the pattern depth while preserving its order.

Color combinations echo those of its striped counterpart, EMINO, while introducing greater depth through the interplay of warp and weft. Soft neutrals balance vanilla and cornstalk tones; cedar green deepens through darker crossings; red pigments gain richness through contrast; and charcoal shades create a composed, architectural expression.

ORIS presents a check defined by proportion, nuance, and the natural variation of the linen fiber.
