

ZELNO Cod.1669

Jacquard upholstery fabric ZELNO's design is inspired by quilted textiles, with the pattern resembling an interplay of woven wool stripes arranged in a structured composition that recalls patchwork expressed through an enlarged panama-like layout. The motif is built from alternating blocks of vertical and horizontal striping, creating a rhythmic and material construction.

Wool gives the fabric its softness, fullness, and natural warmth, while the supportive blend ensures durability and stability for upholstery, cushions, décor elements, and plaids.

The palette is developed around five distinct expressions such as a calm and architectural combination of soft gray, deep charcoal, and natural wool tones; warm golden ochre, wheat, and muted brown producing a sunlit, inviting mood; moss green, olive, and straw tones in measured alternation, bringing an earthy, grounded sensibility; brick, rust, plum, and umber shades forming the most saturated expression of the variants; and soft beige, stone gray, and warm neutrals defining the lightest variant where the gentle contrasts highlight the structure of the design, giving the fabric a calm, woven clarity.

ZELNO brings together the tactility of wool with the precision of jacquard weaving, resulting in a fabric with presence and authenticity, suited to interiors that value detail and material richness, where traditional wool weaving is translated into a contemporary interpretation.
