

PORTER Cod.1904

Upholstery fabric PORTER is woven from pure wool, spun in Tuscany and interpreted through a panama weave defined by a fine, regular grid. The structure creates a compact, stable textile in which warp and weft interact with clarity, giving the fabric a measured rhythm and a subtle sense of depth.

The hand is substantial and compact, with a slight three-dimensionality that emerges naturally from the weave construction. This inherent stability makes

PORTER particularly well suited to upholstery, seating, and interior accessories. The design draws inspiration from checked menswear fabrics preserved in an old wool archive, reinterpreted by adjusting the rhythm of color accents within the grid. Light warp and darker weft intersect with precision, lending the fabric a graphic, almost architectural presence. The geometry remains orderly, while the wool introduces warmth and material softness. The color range is built around taupe, browns, and blacks, balanced with ivory. A sober palette that conveys solidity, order, and timeless style, where the grid is defined with calm precision. PORTER translates a memory of Italian textile culture into a refined, versatile fabric, equally at ease in contemporary interiors and more traditional settings.
