

MARLEN Cod.2423

Linen gives this upholstery fabric its character and presence. Its long natural fibers shape depth and movement, creating a textured weave rich in material presence. The construction of the fabric is grounded in a linen base, where subtle variations in the fibers introduce visual life and natural irregularity. Within this structure, a discreet check emerges through a yarn incorporating viscose. This yarn brings softness and light, allowing the check to emerge through the weave in an understated, balanced manner.

Piece dyed, MARLEN presents layered color and tonal variation that enhance depth and texture. Ten color variants move between yellow mustard, warm mineral shades, earthy tones, softened blues, greens, and light neutrals, each chosen to support the weave and the material expression.

The hand is soft yet full, combining substance with ease. Designed for upholstery, cushions, and decorative applications, MARLEN also lends itself naturally to heavy curtains, where its weight, drape, and construction come fully into view.
